DERMAPEN MICRO NEEDLE SKIN THERAPY

Dermapen micro needle therapy is very efficient neurosurgical method for wrinkle and scar reduction, almost without any counter indications and complications. It is designed to rejuvenate the skin naturally counting on the natural potential of the skin to regenerate after injury. We use micro needle treatments to enforce the skin to regenerate and enhance its own production of collagen, thus achieving the refreshed look.

Dermapen is an electric hand piece with many needles on its tip, and these needles puncture the skin in precisely defined conditions, causing micro traumas which force the skin to regenerate by making new skin. The depth of the micro needles used during the treatment is defined for each part of the face, as well as the depth of the changes they treat. If the treatment is preventive, for stimulation of the skin and application of nutrients, the minimum length of the needles is used, the treatment is almost painless, often describes ad fine scratching. If we treat the deep wrinkles, we set up for the deeper puncture of the needles, so, sometimes it is necessary to do the treatment with the anesthetic cream.

Micro needles make vertical punctures and superficial damage to the skin. As in any other injury, the skin starts the mechanisms of skin regeneration. It happens by proliferation of collagen in fibroblasts. Whereas collagen fibers and capillaries take time to form, patience is recommended. For the first results of the treatment at least 3 weeks are needed, and growing of new young skin will take up to 2 years after the treatment.

Dermapen micro needle therapy is very efficient neurosurgical method for wrinkle scar reduction, almost without any counter indications and complications.

Who is the treatment intended for?

Dermapen is recommended for:

- Reduction and lessening of wrinkles
- Scar healing (acnes, operations, burns...)
- Rejuvenation and lifting
- Absorption of vitamins, hyaluron and other active substances
- Improves stretch marks

What is the treatment like?

The treatment starts with thorough cleansing of the skin with a product which is appropriate to the skin type that is treated. It is followed by an enzyme peeling which takes off the stratum corneum of the skin, thus enabling the substances to penetrate deeper into the skin. After that, if necessary, we apply the anesthetic cream on the face and leave it to stay for 15-20 minutes, depending on the depth of the micro needles we are going to work with. The treatment starts by application of active phial of hyaluron acid which enables the molecules of hyaluron acid to penetrate deeply into the skin. By circular and horizontal movements micro needles will penetrate into the skin and initiate the production of collagen. After the treatment derma cosmetics is applied to additionally nourish and soothe the skin. For the best results, it is necessary to repeat the procedure every 2-4 weeks, 10 times most, depending on the needs and desired results.

After the treatment face will be red and sore, and on the touch the skin will be warmer than usual. This is normal reaction of the skin and in 1-2 hours the condition will improve, and after 24 hours the skin will be normal.

Precaution measure

After the treatment, direct exposure to sunlight should be avoided. The treatment cannot be performed on open wounds and burns.

Radio Frequency Treatment

Radiofrequency treatment is a non-surgical means of "reshaping" the body and the face from beneath the superficial layer of the skin. This method uses sophisticated devices specifically designed to treat men and women's most common skin aging problems like wrinkles, excess fatty tissues, or cellulite.

What is Radio Frequency Treatment and how does it Work?

This type of Slimming procedures works by softening and burning the fat cells in the body in a faster fashion. It concentrates on the specific areas of the body thus you are able to reduce inches within a few hours after the procedure.

Heat is transmitted through a hand piece in a rapid uninterrupted circular movement into the skin's deep and shallow layers without harming the outer skin or causing burns.

When RF energy meets collagen the resulting resistance and heat causes the collagen to contract and tighten. This heat also stimulates the production and growth of new collagen fibers.

RF is generally used therefore in 3 principle areas in cosmetic procedures

- 1. Tightening. Non specific heating of the dermis by RF will not only stimulate new collagen production but can shrink collagen fibres by up to one third. This minimizes the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles as the lines become tighter.
- 2. Deeper lines and wrinkles. As RF can penetrate into the subcutaneous and deeper dermal layers, the heat produced in the targeted regions can result in the stimulation of the body's natural collagen (in contrast, for example, to the injection of collagen derived synthetically or from animals). This, has a much longer lasting effect over a course of treatments (8 sessions), than the more short term effects of injected collagen from an alien substance. However, the immediate results from RF treatment are not as dramatic.

3. Cellulite. Over the years many devices have been developed to reduce the effects of cellulite. Many of these have used a combination of a vacuum and rollers to aid circulation to the affected areas and to physically break down fat. However, it has recently been shown that RF can denature these affected areas. Cellulite is visible when fat clusters in the dermis become distended and elastin fibres are rigid, causing dimpling at the surface. RF heating disrupts fat clusters and over time causes new 'stretchy' elastin fibres to be produced and results in a smoother skin surface.

To summarize therefore, RF is not a treatment for weight loss in overweight individuals. It is however suitable for the smaller pockets of trapped fat cells that can be found in cellulite, and it is very effective for long term reduction in wrinkles at the deeper level, in addition to providing some more immediate skin tightening at the superficial level. RF is not legislated by the Care Quality Commission, as it is regarded as a relatively safe treatment to administer.

Benefits of Radio Frequency

- Face and Neck Lifting & Remodelling
- Reduces Wrinkles / Lift Sagging Skin
- Fat Reduction
- Cellulite Treatment and skin partial reconstruction
- Tighten loose skin

- Tightening and lifting flaccid areas of the face
- Enhances luminosity of the skin
- Body Remodelling
- Increase Collagen Level

How long does it take to work?

Depending on the area, 3-6 sessions are required. One session lasts about half an hour.

Is there any down time?

No downtime, which is just one of the reasons it's so popular.

So there you have it, folks. Multi-frequency RF technology in a nutshell – yet another tool to add to your anti-aging toolbox.

What areas of the body does RF technology target?

The Reaction Machine has two programs, ReLift for the face and neck, and ReFit for the body. ReLift targets wrinkles, sagging skin, naso-labial folds and fat along the neck and jowl line – it's a good alternative for those who don't want to inject Botulotoxin. ReFit targets cellulite, sagging post-pregnancy skin and loose skin caused by excessive weight loss.

Treatment Theory

IPL INTENSE PULSED LIGHT is a method of hair removal from the body. It involves the use of a specially constructed xenon flash lamp and focusing optics. IPL is generally advertised as "permanent hair reduction" as opposed to "permanent hair removal". It also used for the treatment of the skin in a process known as photorejuvenation.

IPL technology is also employed in the treatment of medical disorders of the skin including:

- Sun damage induced dyspigmentation and vascular changes
- Poikiloderma of Civatte
- Acne Rosacea
- Broken capillaries/telangiectases
- Vascular and pigment birth marks

Functions of the IPL-NV

- 1. Hair removal (both thick black hair and thin light hair)
- 2. Skin rejuvenation
- 3. Wrinkle removal
- 4. Vascular therapy
- 5. Pigment removal
- 6. Breast enhancing

Intense Pulsed Light (IPL) Technology Intense Pulsed Light Therapy, or better known as IPL Therapy is used for Hair Removal, but can also be used for Facial and Body Vein removal, Vascular Birthmarks, Pimples, Facial Rejuvination and Collagen Stimulation.

How does the hair removal system work? The IPL (Intense Pulsed Light Therapy) hair removal procedure produces a high intensity flash of filtered light from the applicator head, which has been placed in contact with the skin. The energy from the light source is absorbed by the pigment melanin, which is the chromophore, which gives hair its colour. The hair rapidly absorbs this filtered light and transfers it to the surrounding cells that in turn are converted into heat raising them to a temperature of 70 degree Centigrade or more. The heating denatures the cells making them incapable of producing further hair growth. How IPL Works?

How is the treatment carried out? The glass applicator is placed in contact with skin surface and the light is pulsed through it onto the skin. The applicator is then moved to the neighbouring area and the process is repeated. Who can be treated? Dark hairs are most easily treated due to the high concentration of melanin that gives maximum absorption and conversion of light energy into heat. Very fair hair has less melanin and consequently less heat is produced, simply raising the fluence output from the IPL treats such hair. White hair has no melanin and cannot be efficiently treated. The upper skin layer of the epidermis also contains melanin and the concentration increases when the skin is exposed to UV light. It is therefore necessary to treat the dark skinned individuals with less energy to avoid generation of excess heat and pain in the skin. The IPL software allows you to adjust the treatment parameters for different hair and pigment type. SUITABLE FOR ANY SKIN COLOUR & HAIR TYPE

Does it hurt? As the light energy is absorbed by the pigment melanin, the discomfort depends upon the concentration of melanin in the epidermis and the hairs combined. Consequently it hurts more in dark skinned people and those with dense dark hair hairs. No anaesthesia is required and most patients describe the pain as moderate and acceptable (as if a hairbrush has been tapped against the skin) Does you need to shave prior to the treatment? Ideally, hairs should be 1 to 2mm long when you come in for the treatment so it is possible to mark out the treatment area. Long hairs take up the energy and prevent all of it reaching to the hair root. Therefore hair is trimmed just before for maximum transmission of the energy. If the hair is normally shaved and can be seen when shaven then you can shave right up to the day of treatment. Although plucking and bleaching should not be done. By avoiding any other form of epilating and waxing 4 weeks before the treatment it ensures as many follicles as possible contain hair thus can be destroyed by the light Why do hairs "grow" after treatment? Unlike other light depilation treatments, hairs are not vaporised by the IPL treatment. The heat kills the hair roots but the hairs remain in the skin and often become attached to the epidermis. They will fall out after 1 to 3 weeks as the epidermis renews itself. During this period it will seem that the hairs are growing a little faster as the epidermis pushes them out. How can you tell if the treatment has worked when the hairs are not removed immediately? Various Indications such as colour of Hair becoming charcoal black and expanding in size or a Red ring around each follicle is often seen a few minutes after the treatment. These are good indications that sufficient heating of the follicles has taken place. Unfortunately this is not always seen and we have seen many patients with successful treatments results without the post treatment signs. What are the side effects? The visible light should be completely safe, so no special precautions are needed apart from glasses for the brightness generated from flash lamp. The skin of some people can be quite red immediately after treatment and very rarely small blisters as from excessive sun exposure can occur. However, most people experience no side effects at all and the described skin reactions as above usually disappear within hours to few days. Unlike electrolysis the IPL treatment is non-invasive How many treatments are necessary? Only hair in the growth phase can be treated. The number of hairs in this phase varies from 20% to 90% depending on the body site. The lengths of the growth cycles also vary from 6 to 24 weeks depending on the body site. For most people three to five treatments are sufficient to clear an area of hair. After the first treatment most patients get a significant reduction in hair density also new grown hairs tend to become finer. It is important to know that the first treatment is believed to synchronise the anagen (growth) phase of the non-anagen hairs. This may cause what seems to be regrowth but actually just sleeping hairs starting to grow at the same time (new growth) This in turn makes next treatment(s) more effective How do I prepare for treatment? Patients should avoid tanning 1 month ahead of the treatment and immediately after treatment the skin is particularly sensitive to UV light and strong sunlight should be avoided for 4-5 days. How Long Does The Treatment Take? The Facial treatment usually takes 10 minutes whereas both legs and an entire back take approximately 1 hour Is It Permanent? Most authorities would agree that using current laser and IPL technology it is possible to permanently remove hair. Histology studies have found destroyed and denatured hair follicles cells in post treatment. A recent study showed that the percentage reduction in hairs after treatment using IPL systems are well above 80%.
